Diamondhead resident's daughter earns recognition in show horse world

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Ashley Lemoine of Baton Rouge, La., has claimed a triple crown.

The daughter of Sherwood J. Lemoine of Diamondhead was awarded $8,500 in college scholarships this year when she won first place in both NSHR and UPHA Equitation competitions.

She and her Arabian gelding, Gandy Dancer, claimed the triple crown in the 1991 horse show finals by winning the Saddleseat Equitation Grand Championship, the UPHA Challenge Cup Saddleseat Equitation Championship, and the Saddleseat Equitation Championship, 14-17.

Lemoine, now 18, said, "I have always loved horses. My grandparents owned horses and I began riding when I was nine years old."

The type of showing Lemoine does involves no jumping, she explained. "It is mainly show. It is the gait, walk, trot, and canter of the animal that counts. "The horse is judged on its beauty, and you are judged on your ability to handle the animal."

Lemoine's ability to handle Gandy Dancer is a story of commitment. When she was 14, she was working with Gandy Dancer through a practice, prior to a showing, when the 1,200-pound animal reared, throwing Lemoine to the ground and falling backwards on top of her.

Her pelvis was crushed in seven places. Her sacrum was fractured in two places.

She spent three weeks in the hospital and for several months she endured the necessary physical therapy.

"I had to learn to walk again," Lemoine said. "It was very hard. It was very painful, but I was determined to not only walk, I wanted to ride again."

Lemoine was back in the saddle the following year. This time she stared slowly, on smaller western style horses.

In the fall of 1988, she won the junior exhibition in the half-Arabian, half-English pleasure division at the Louisiana State University Horse Show.

In the spring of 1989, she won reserve champion honors and qualified for the National Horse Show Finals held that year in Kentucky.

Lemoine is now a graduate of University High in Baton Rouge and plans to continue her education at Southeastern University in Hammond, La.

"I am interested in an art major," she commented. "Maybe art education or graphics. I'm not sure."

Whatever path Lemoine chooses to take in the future, she does plan to keep horses in her life.

"I am no longer eligible to compete as an amateur because of my age, so there is always the possibility that I may show horses one day as a professional."

Calgon effluent line work praised by Port and Harbor

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Hancock County Port and Harbor members were told Monday that the Calgon effluent line at the Port Bienville Industrial Park was completed and operable.

Commission engineer Carlos Cordon praised the commitment by Twin L. Construction Company to complete the line within the prescribed 60 days.

"I am very pleased with them," Cordon told the commission. "They said they would have it completed by the first week of December, and they did."

Cordon added that laying 10,500 feet of pipe line within 60 days was a tough job.

He also reported that work by G.M. & R. Construction Company was near 100 percent completed. "The plant's sewer and water lines are operating right now."

Commission attorney Robert

Genin asked if the Port and Harbor Commission's obligations to Calgon Carbon Corporation of Pittsburgh were completed at this time.

"Yes, with the completion of the sewer lift station," Cordon answered, "that pretty much completes our commitment to Calgon."

Cordon concluded his report to the commission saying, "Calgon is shooting for an official opening by the end of January."

Hancock UW nearing goal

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The United Way of Hancock County's 1991 campaign has reached 93.5% of its goal, Mike Haas, Jr., campaign chairman, said Saturday.

Some $130,997 has been raised in pledges and donations toward a goal of $140,000.

There are 23 agencies funded by the United Way of Hancock County, of which the majority offer services to county residents of all ages.

Haas said, "I appreciate the efforts of the volunteers in the community, who have helped make this the most successful United Way campaign."

"We are planning on finishing this campaign before Christmas and I would like to request that everyone make their donation or pledge as soon as possible."

"On behalf of the United Way, I would at this time like to thank each and every one for their support and assistance."

Anyone who has not been contacted and needs a pledge card, brochure, or information on the United Way, can contact Haas at 467-6574.

Donations can be mailed to the United Way of Hancock County, c/o United Way of South Mississippi, P.O. Box 1172, Gulfport, MS. 39502.

Hardest-to-keep toys

BY TRACI BONNEY

This time each year, thousands of shoppers raid the toy section of area department stores for that perfect Christmas present: Joey or Susie.

Locally, the Magic Copier is the runaway item.

Kmart manager Paul McElveen said the Magic Copier (which functions something like a real photocopier) and the talking Ariel doll (from Disney's The Little Mermaid) are the two he has the most trouble keeping in stock.

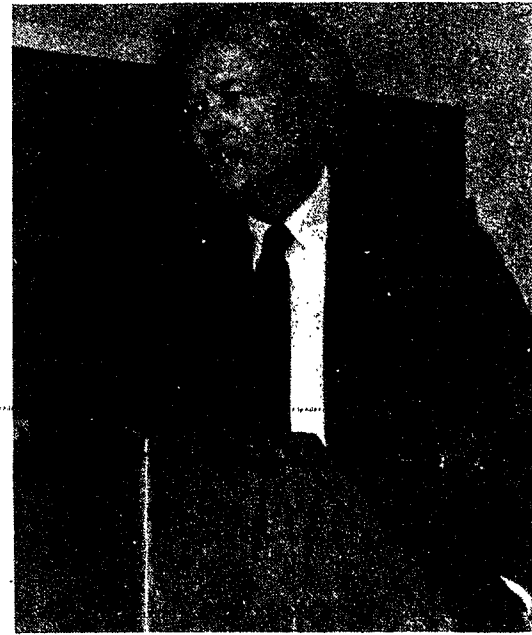

Wal-Mart toy department manager Keith Pavolini said the Magic Copier is one of his best sellers as well. Other favorites include the Nerf Bow and Arrow set, the Color Blaster, the Hot

Information meet

The Friends of Bay St. Louis had a meeting Wednesday evening in the Mississippi Power auditorium, Hwy. 90 and Dunbar. Chairman Fred Wagner addressed the 38 people present in a meeting he described as "an opportunity to keep people abreast of recent developments and to plan future strategy." Also attending were Bay St. Louis Mayor Edward Favre, Councilmen Charles Scianna, John Wilkerson and Jim Thriffliey. In explaining the reason the group was formed, Wagner said, "The purpose is not to deal with the moral issue (of gambling). The purpose of this organization is to represent the people of Bay St. Louis who object to having dockside gambling operations anywhere on the beach front in Bay St. Louis." Wagner's speech to the organization and city officials included an explanation of the status of Mardi Gras Casino's planned dockside gambling development at the foot of the Bay bridge. Graveside services were held Friday at Gulf Coast Memorial Cemetery and Mausoleum in Bay St. Louis.

Edmond Fahey Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Card of Thanks

The board of directors of the Hancock County Food Pantry would like to thank everyone for such a great response in food, donations, etc. in time of crisis. Since its inception the food pantry was able to help 5,132 families—16,283 people in all.

The response from everyone has been great. We can't thank you enough.

We are grateful to the area's churches, businesses and merchants, schools, Civil Defense employees, the citizens of Hancock County, organizations, The Sea Coast Echo, our volunteers, and the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

The people of Hancock County donated money and time to help make the holidays a little brighter for so many. It has been great team work.

With your continued support and generosity the Hancock County Food Pantry will be able to continue helping those in need.

Merry Christmas to all,

In Memoriam

In Loving Memory

MICHELE LEMAY
Michele, it has been one year. Silent thoughts bring many a tear for the one we loved so dear. Wherever we go; whatever we do, locked in our hearts are memories of you.

Gone and forgotten to some you may be, but sweet to our memory you ever will be.

God called you home, it was His will but in our hearts, we love you still.

When we at death must part, it gives us inward pain; but we shall still be joined in heart, and hope to meet again.

Sadly missed by

In Memoriam

In Loving Memory

of

WILLIE (BEN) NICHOLSON
On Dec. 15, 1978 you went to a more peaceful place to walk with the Lord.

I often read John 3:16 in the Bible which says: "For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

I hope you can hear what I am saying, that your death has brought us closer together, because we know one day we will be with you again.

I often tell the others what you would have done if you were still with us, and how proud I am that I had the time I had with you.

The only regrets we have is that we never told you how much we loved you and how proud we were to have you as a father, and now that you are gone we will never have the time.

But we are waiting to meet you again some day, and we will never lose time in telling you how much we love and missed you.

United Way helps local agencies

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one in a continuing series of articles about agencies and services supported by the United Way of Hancock County.

BY TRACI BONNEY

In past weeks, The Sea Coast Echo has published articles about individual local agencies financially assisted by United Way of Hancock County.

However, these agencies are only a few of the 23 on the Coast that United Way supports. Other local agencies include:

Hancock County Emergency Relief Fund — Organized to help the needy and those with emergency situations who do not qualify for assistance by other services. Eligibility is determined according to need, and administration of funds is handled on a rotating basis by ministers who assume the responsibility for a month.

The agency does not help with rent, electricity or utilities because of limited funds. Transients are assisted, but are screened before being given help.

Those who may need help can call 467-5258.

Hancock County Blood Bank — In operation since 1951, the blood bank has had John D. Rutherford Jr. as its chairman since 1954. He estimates that the blood bank has donated 16,500 to 17,000 units of blood without any charge to Hancock County residents.

The blood bank has 15 to 18 blood drives a year, and is assisted by the Mobile Red Cross.

Rutherford said, "The war in the (Persian) Gulf is over, but the demand for blood is still great."

He urges everyone 17 or older who is healthy and weighs at least 110 pounds to donate blood.

Hancock County Senior Citizen Center — Open since 1972, the center serves as a focal point for the provision of services or referrals to the appropriate agencies.

Services the center provides or contracts for include recreation classes, information, referral, outreach, counseling, transportation, Meals-On-Wheels, hot noon meals at the center, and a homemaker service. The center helps provide that little extra assistance some senior citizens need to be able to continue living in their own homes, and also gives more active seniors exposure to social, educational, recreational and other opportunities.

The center can be reached at 467-9292.

4-H Club — An informal, practical, learn-by-doing educational program for youth 8-18 from rural and urban areas and all racial, cultural, economic and social backgrounds, 4-H helps its members learn how to set goals and how to be a good citizen.

Club members select one or more projects, elect officers, plan and carry out a program for all or several months of the year. All the members may enroll in the same project (a project club) or in a variety of projects (general club).

Those who cannot join a 4-H Club may join a special interest group that meets once or several times to learn about a particular subject, or may enroll as an individual member, a member who carries out one project.

Those interested in 4-H may contact the County Extension Office at 467-5456.

St. Vincent de Paul Society — Founded locally about seven years ago, the St. Vincent de Paul Society's two conferences (St. Clare and Our Lady of the Gulf) give counseling and financial assistance to those in need without regard to religious preference. Services provided include visiting Hancock County jail inmates; visiting the elderly and ill who are housebound, as well as those in the hospital and nursing home; travel aid; spiritual counselling, distribution of religious reading materials; and references to other agencies.

The Society also runs a thrift shop on Coleman Avenue in Waveland, where clothes and other items can be had for very low prices. Proceeds from the shop benefit the Society.

Local library staff attends MLA convention

"Libraries 'R' Fundamental" was the theme of the Mississippi Library Association's 1991 convention held in Biloxi Oct. 23-25.

Sessions during the event included "Education Reform and School Libraries," "The Integrated Learning Resource Center," "Issues for Public Libraries in the 1990's," "Information Literacy," along with hundreds of exhibits and features.

Panel discussions were held on such topics as full spectrum programming for young people, with librarians sharing ideas on toddler story times, preschool story kits, and teen involvement. The Mississippi Delegation to the White House Conference on Libraries and Information Services also conducted a panel discussion and report on the national conference and the resolutions passed.

Since the convention was in Biloxi, all Hancock County Library System staff members and two members of the board of trustees attended various sessions during the three-day conference.

Attending from the Hancock County Library System were Prima Wusnack, director; Max Johnson, assistant director; Evelyn Johnson and John Smart, board members; Mary

Leigh Westen, Kay Wolfe, Sandra Ladner, Ann Larosa, Adrienne Redmond, Evelyn Ncaise, Karen Peoples, Linda McKay and Myra Haynes.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Today the St. Stanislaus Sideline Club's annual Turkey Shoot will be held at the SSC Stadium starting at 11 a.m.

The Sideline Club has been re-organized and this is one of the club's big fund raisers for the year.

This is a good time of the year to win a turkey and a lot of folks should take a turkey home with them.

Hamburgers, french fries and drinks will be available.

Some of you marksmen may want to try your luck. There will be 12 gauge and 410 gauge shoots.

I hope to see you at the turkey shoot.

I have taken a lot of ribbing, especially at the Legion's Christmas party Friday night about 'changing the history of Texas' in my last column.

In my column on Thursday, I got San Antonio and Galveston mixed a bit and placed the Alamo in the wrong city.

I apologize to anyone I may have offended. I have been reminded numerous times that the Alamo is in San Antonio and hopefully won't forget.

Christmas activities continue in our area.

On Tuesday, The Hancock County Welcome Center will have Open House.

There will be special performances by children from Headstart at 10 a.m. and the RSVP Choir at 10:30 a.m.

Special decorations, delicious refreshments and holiday performances will be part of the ceremonies.

I know there are many folks who live in the area who have never visited our Welcome Center at the intersection of Interstate 10 and Highway 607. It is a very beautiful area and much admired by travelers.

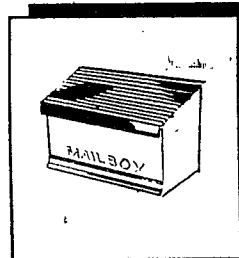

Many of our local residents will be at the Welcome Center for this special occasion.

Next Saturday will be the Main Street Market in the parking lot of the Olde Towne Restaurant on Main Street, Bay St. Louis.

The Olde Time Trolley rides will be at Diamondhead next Saturday from 1-3 p.m. Take a ride and see the many decorations in the Diamondhead area.

Santa will arrive at noon at the Diamondhead Plaza Shopping Center and will be available for pictures with youngsters at the Fire Station sponsored by the Diamondhead Rotary Club.

These are just few of the many events in the area.

Waveland Animal Shelter criticized for overspending

Dear Editor,

The Echo was misinformed about the pie-throwing bazaar on Dec. 14 to benefit the Waveland Animal Shelter. It was not an affair sponsored by the Hancock County Humane Society. The money from this affair is to go to the City of Waveland for a truck to pick up animals.

Waveland charges Bay St. Louis and Hancock County to take their strays, yet the shelter does not have enough money to pick up Waveland animals!

As a lifetime member of the Hancock County Humane Society, I protest the use of our name for something that is not our doing. As a past member of the Waveland Animal Shelter Commission, I ask why Waveland is having trouble keeping the shelter going on at least twice the money we charged the county and Bay St. Louis when we were able to expand the shelter and improve it on our charges.

Yours truly,
Barbara Jo Fitch
Past President,

Fishing column criticized for encouraging bad practices

To the Editor,

As a local resident I feel that I should comment on the complete lack of ethics displayed by Jim Maness in two of his recent "Fishin' Y'all" articles and on the Sea Coast Echo for printing them.

First, he erroneously describes how to circumvent the size limit laws. These limits are in place to protect a species. I have two small children who I hope will soon be able to keep and eat the fish they catch here.

If everyone puts this much effort into keeping illegal fish, that is not likely to happen. Also Jim, you're wrong. Trailering your boat to Louisiana doesn't make these undersize fish legal. Any game warden can stop you on the highway just as easily as at the boat ramp. I hope that you have already learned this, the hard way.

Then, in today's Echo (12/12) he begins by chastising illegal netters. I personally don't like gill nets. But if a person doesn't care about some game laws (size limits), why should he care about other illegal acts?

He then asks why there were no 22-inch reds in a particular catch. Well Jim, maybe they came over on a trailer, as per your advice.

Empty but legal,
Tommy Elkins

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

A Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

Taxpayer-subsidized bailout further cripples our economy

The banking scandal, once ignored by Washington policymakers, is about to cost us billions.

According to Business Week, a decade of bad loans to "real estate developers, takeover artists and Third World countries" has liquidated the assets of the once-strong Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

After years of denying the need for a taxpayer subsidized bailout, federal officials now admit that at least $70 billion of our hard-earned money will be needed to stabilize the industry.

And that figure may be absurdly low. Some experts say that even if the economy improves, the true cost of the bailout could be as much as $200 billion. If the economy does not improve, the cost could be far higher.

The news could not have come at a worse time.

The U.S. economy is already suffocating under a mountain of debt. For the first time in our nation's history, we spend more on interest payments than we do for national defense.

And now money that should be used to reduce our debt will have to be used to bail out our own banks.

It doesn't seem fair. And it's not fair to Mississippians. Our bankers, by and large, managed to avoid the mindless wholesale financial fagging of the 1980s. With very few exceptions, they made loans that were fiscally sound and not based upon absurdly inflated real estate values or outrageously high estimated rates of return.

But we will have to pay more than our fair share to bail out the Texas and California "fat cat" bankers and their congressmen.

They seem to have forgotten, in their haste to kowtow to the slick real estate developer or junk bond dealer in Gucci shoes with the nice teeth who married their cousin's daughter or came up with a healthy campaign contribution, that one of their main responsibilities is to protect the assets of the small investor.

It doesn't seem fair.

—More than 200 people attended the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce ceremony in the Diamondhead Country Club Saturday night to witness the presidents change hands and the presentation of an Outstanding Citizen Award. Waveland resident Perry Gibson was named the chamber's Outstanding Citizen for the year of 1981.

—Highway and Railroad Bridges being Guarded by United States Army. Two Hundred and Fifty Men Stationed in Bay St. Louis — Public and Civic Organizations Extend Courtesies — Other Strategic Points Protected. Almost immediately upon declaration of war upon Japan by Congress on Monday afternoon, Bay St. Louis took on a martial air with small squads of soldiers in full uniform and carrying guns and bayonets in Army lorries arriving to fortify and stand guard at strategic points in the city. At the City Hall early in the day, officers of the 145th Infantry from Camp Shelby arrived and made arrangements with city officials for the stationing of 250 troops to be used for policing and guarding the bridges and all power and municipal plants and important highways. The troops arriving a short while later were stationed at Cedar Point on the property of Lucien Gex and Horace Kergosien on Felicite Street and numbered 300. Soon after squadrons of eight armed soldiers were stationed on the highway bridge, the Louisville and Nashville Railroad bridge, the Mississippi Power Company's substation on Blaize Avenue next to the Bay Ice Company's plant, the Bay St. Louis Water Works, and all main points where a vigilant watch is being kept for any attempt at sabotage. Any assistance or courtesy offered the soldiers by townspeople or organizations will be an assistance in the great national defense program.

—Pastor Meigs, of the Main Street Methodist Church, is in Jackson this week attending the annual Conference of his church. Assignment of pastors for next year will be announced Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock and published in Tuesday morning's newspaper. It is hoped Mr. Meigs will be returned to this city.

—At the First Baptist Church, next Sunday morning, December 17th, the pastor, H.C. Roberts, will preach at 11 o'clock. The Methodist pastor is away at Conference, so this morning's sermon will be the only one for the day. Pastor Roberts goes to Lake Shore to preach afternoon and night. All are cordially invited to the Baptist Church tomorrow, Sunday morning.

In other departments, McElveen said the Easy Glider fitness unit and most electronics items have been hot sellers for Kmart. He added that the store's post-Thanksgiving sale was better than last year's.
"This year is better in general than last year for shopping," he said.
Wal-Mart assistant manager Johnny Fowler listed cooking appliances, electronics (especially televisions), games, guns, clothes and the Dirt Devil Hand Vac as being the store's best-selling non-toy gift items.
"This year is basically one of our better years for sales," he added.

Mabus announces Main Street planning grants

Governor Ray Mabus announced the awarding of two $25,000 Mississippi Main Street planning grants to the cities of Bay St. Louis and Long Beach. The grants are issued through the Community Development Block Grant program by the Mississippi Department of Economic and Community Development.
The Mississippi Main Street Program is directed by the Mississippi Downtown Development Association. Operating as a statewide non-profit organization, MDDA provides cities and small towns with training and technical assistance required for the economic revitalization of downtown business districts.

"I am happy that the state could help these cities plan future developments for their downtown business districts," Mabus said. "Revitalizing downtown areas stimulates the growth and development of the entire local economy."
The purpose of the Main Street planning grants is to assist designated Main Street communities that have demonstrated a need for planning assistance.

Bay St. Louis and Long Beach are two of six grant recipients awarded Main Street planning grants. Other cities, each receiving a $25,000 grant include Canton, Columbus, Corinth and Natchez.

SALE OF A CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE

Hancock County Metropolitan Narcotics Task Force Director Glenn Strong reported Thursday the arrest of two Bay St. Louis women on drug-related charges.
Strong said the task force arrested Vickie L. Payadou, 29, 209 Sycamore St. and Sherrie M. Morel, 29, 8027 Sunflower St., Wednesday night about 7:15 p.m., and charged them with sale of a controlled substance, being marijuana.
Both were charged with possession with intent to sell a controlled substance and are out on a bond of $2,000 each from the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility, Strong said.
Task Force officer Bill Pepperman of Waveland police department is in charge of the investigation.
Others participating in the arrest included, Glen Strong of the Hancock County sheriff's department, Terry Eley, Bay St. Louis police department and Hancock deputy sheriff Terry Roberson.

Fear of flying

A DIFFERENT VIEW

By Traci Bonney

Just how safe is flying? A co-worker of mine is using winged transportation to travel during the holiday season. She came into the office the other day with a leaflet given to her with her ticket. This leaflet said that $150,000 of automatic flight insurance is included with her airline ticket.

The leaflet claimed the insurance is a service from the travel agent and is at no additional cost to the ticket purchaser, but we know better, right? I mean, consider how much you pay for a ticket — leaving aside the travel agent's commission, do the airlines actually need that much money to cart you half-way across the country, feed you bad food and lose your luggage?

Anyway, aside from the reassurance that comes from knowing your travel agent believes it's a good idea to insure your life if you decide to fly, there is the comfort you can get from knowing the payment of benefits, should that be necessary, is being efficiently handled.

For example, to quote from the description of coverage for this policy: "Full benefit is paid to you for accidental loss of life, two limbs, both eyes or one limb and one eye, one-half the amount is paid for loss of one limb or one eye."

Bad grammar aside, how can you get the money for accidental loss of your own life?

Later in the description this little confusion is clarified, but still...

In the "Exclusions" portion of the description, the policy states: "Coverage does not apply for loss caused by self-inflicted injury, suicide, war, illness or travel for aerial navigation except as expressly provided."

1. "Travel for aerial navigation?" What? This one makes no sense at all to me. Are they saying the pilot isn't covered? Who else would be engaging in travel for aerial navigation?

2. "Self-inflicted injury, suicide, war..." Ever eat airline food? I wonder if the insurance company would consider choking on Chicken Surprise as self-inflicted injury or a suicide attempt?

As for war, I can't see how a commercial airline could put you in a position to die as a result of war, unless the plane flew into airspace in which a battle was occurring. Even then, it's not your fault you're there. You're just an innocent byflyer.

One of the last things the description of coverage says is that the leaflet given to my co-worker is not a complete description of the coverage. What? You mean there's more gobbledygook?

Well, flying is probably as safe as it's ever been. This insurance policy, though — that's another story.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR COASTAL WETLANDS PERMIT AND WATER QUALITY CERTIFICATION

John Stockstill has filed an application with the Bureau of Marine Resources requesting permission to conduct regulated activities under the provision of the Coastal Wetlands Protection Law, Chapter 27, Mississippi Code of 1972.

The applicant is requesting permission to place fill in a wetland and to construct a pier and boat ramp on his property located at lot 488 on Fisher Street in Hannon Bay Estates Subdivision near Ansley, Hancock County, Mississippi.

In compliance with Section 401 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1251, 1341), as amended by PL 95-217, John Stockstill requested certification from the Bureau of Pollution Control that the above mentioned activity will be in compliance with applicable provisions of Section 301 (33 U.S.C. 1311), Section 302 (33 U.S.C. 1312), Section 303 (33 U.S.C. 1313), Section 306 (33 U.S.C. 1316), and Section 307 (33 U.S.C. 1317) of the act and appropriate requirements of the State Law.

Any person wishing to make comments or objections to the proposed regulated activity must submit those comments in writing to the Bureau of Marine Resources, at 2620 Beach Boulevard, Biloxi, Mississippi 38531 and the Bureau of Pollution Control, Post Office Box 10395, Jackson, Mississippi 39205 before 1:00 p.m. on the 7th day of January, 1992.

Let me guess

The Clermont Handcrafters, during their annual Christmas luncheon at Nick's House of Catfish Wednesday, indulged in a few party games. Two were guessing games in which guests and members tried to deduce the contents of small decorative tins by reading a clue and shaking the tins. Participants included (from left) member Patsy Garcia, guest Anna Mae Paroli, members Irene Graff and Dorothy Jackson. (Echo staff photo by Traci Bonney)

Take Off Pounds Sensibly

WAVELAND

TOPS MS 233 Waveland met Tuesday, Dec. 10 at the Waveland Library. Charlotte was the week's best loser. She lost 5 1/2 pounds. The club welcomed a new member, Tracy, and a guest, Charlie. Members congratulated Shelley on the birth of her 9-pound 4-ounce baby girl named Clair and wished a quick recovery to member Vera, who had surgery recently.

In last week's article a mistake was made in that it was Carolyn instead of Carolyn who achieved her goal.

Tops' Christmas party will be Tuesday, Dec. 17.

Tops meets every Tuesday at the Waveland Public Library. Weigh-ins are from 5:30-6 p.m. with the meeting immediately following.

Anyone interested in losing weight sensibly and maintaining that weight loss is invited to visit one of the meetings. Call Charlotte at 467-5790 for information.

Hancock Women's Club

The Hancock Women's Club met at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club Thursday, Dec. 12 for its Christmas luncheon. There were 37 present, including guests Peggy Mercier, Mary Thompson and Judith Stevens and new members Isabelle Crais and Hortense DeVille.

Lois Cripple, president, announced the $100 donation approved in November for the American Cancer Society had been sent, and a further $100 was approved by the membership for the Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund, administered by Andrew Lizana, Bay St. Louis fire chief, which will be provided in time for this year's Christmas needs.

At 1 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 18, the club will sponsor a party for 156 children enrolled in Head Start. Club members will provide gifts, cup cakes and ice cream, the Coca-Cola Company has donated coloring books, McDonald's will provide beverages, and a local enterprise has assisted with a discount on the gift purchases. Bob Hubbard will once again be our Santa Claus. Club members are requested to make every effort to attend to assist in serving the children.

Cathleen Taconi has resigned from the club, and Loraine Townsend has volunteered to act as ways and means chairman for the unexpired period of Taconi's term.

The next meeting will be Thursday, Jan. 9 at 10:30 a.m. at the Bay St. Louis Library. This is a change of location, as the Waveland Library can no longer offer the room on the second Thursday of the month.

Door prizes were won by Mary Thompson, Hortense DeVille, Theda Fischer, Judy Stevens, Isabelle Crais and Lou Scott.

After a gift exchange among the participants, the club was entertained by pianist and vocalist Judy Stevens, who also led everyone in singing Christmas carols.

N. Hancock Business/Professionals sponsor toy drive for needy children

The North Hancock County Business and Professional Association and Hancock Bank are hoping to make Christmas brighter for needy children in the county.

Kenny Allison of D&K Quick Stop recently donated $300 toward the purchase of toys, which will be distributed at his store during a party for the children on December 23.

All donations can be addressed to P. O. Box 730, Kiln, MS 39556. For more information contact Allison at 255-3212.

Business association donates computers

The Bay St. Louis Business Association donated two new computers to Bay Middle School for use by the students. Funds were raised over a two year period through concession sales during the organization's Concert in the Park series. Diamondhead gingerbread house contest to benefit Marine Corps 'Toys for Tots'

Diamondhead Country Club is sponsoring their third annual Gingerbread House Competition to raise funds for the Marine Corps "Toys for Tots" program.

All proceeds from entry fees and donations will go to the program.

Houses must be constructed on a wooden base not to exceed 24" x 24". Entry forms may be picked up the Country Club, along with recipes. Each entry should be titled.

The houses will be on display at the club from December 18-22 for viewing. Guests may also vote for "most popular" for a $1 donation. Prizes will be offered in all categories.

Entry fee is $10. Judging will be Sunday, December 22 at noon. A Christmas buffet brunch will be served that day and will be open to the public.

For additional information, call 255-2525.

Mensa offers scholarships

Students in South Mississippi have a chance to win scholarships ranging from $1,000 to $2,000 in regional competition with residents of neighboring states, as well as special local and national awards. Mensa, the international High IQ Society, sponsors the annual scholarship contest through the Mensa Education and Research Foundation.

The only requirement is that the applicant be enrolled in a degree program at an accredited American institution of post-secondary education for the 1992-93 academic year. The contest is judged solely on the basis of a 550-word (or less) essay. Applicants need not be members of Mensa.

Entries must be postmarked by Jan. 31. Scholarship applications, with full contest details, may be obtained by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to South Mississippi Mensa Scholarship chair, J. M. Jenkins, P.O. Box 445, Long Beach, MS 39560.

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139

The annual Christmas meeting and party of the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139 was Monday, Dec. 9 at the Legion home.

President Janet Aime opened the meeting and announced the regular order of business was tabled and called on chaplain Ursula Favre to read the prayers.

The members brought a variety of delicious dishes to go with the turkey and ham as well as gifts to be exchanged. Spouses were included to participate. Everyone had a 'little of this and that' and thoroughly enjoyed a hearty repast.

Santa's helpers Judy Gavney, Lou Wilkerson, Billie Tudury and Shirley Clemons, distributed gifts.

The Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post and Auxiliary 139 wish all of their members a very Merry Christmas and a happy, healthy and prosperous New Year.

GCRL awarded National Science Foundation funding

Gulf Coast Research Laboratory in Ocean Springs has been awarded an additional $155,677 from the National Science Foundation for a program which supports minority student and faculty participation in marine science research, educational programs and field activities.

Funding for the two-year project, which now totals $311,354, was requested by the Southern Association of Marine Laboratories (SAML), an organization of 37 institutions in the southeastern United States, Bermuda, Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands.

Dr. Thomas D. McIlwain, GCRL director and SAML president, is directing the program with Dr. Dirk Frankenberg.

The funding extension will allow minority students to continue participation in courses, field studies and research programs at SAML institutions and will foster continued interaction between SAML members and minority colleges and universities.

AGING & CAVITIES

Tooth decay has no respect for the elderly. It occurs frequently among older men and women. For one thing, people of their generation did not have the anticavity benefit of fluoride treatment in their childhood. Many also did not get the kind of preventive dental care that is available today. As a result, over the years, many older people have experienced a number of cavities. As time goes by, longtime fillings may crack and allow new decay to start around the edges.

Dr. Frank Conaway

Older people also are susceptible to tooth root decay. This frequently develops as a result of receding gums. Tooth roots are covered by cementum, which is softer than enamel and vulnerable to plaque and decay once gums start to recede.

Faithful brushing and flossing to help prevent decay and gum disease are still a must as people grow older. Periodic checkups by the dentist can detect the start of new decay and minimize the effect, which otherwise could cause tooth loss.

Speights, Eastridge attend conference

Pete Speights of Kiln and James Eastridge of Picayune, commissioners with the Hancock County Soil and Water Conservation District, attended the Mississippi Association of Conservation Districts' Leadership Development program recently in Laurel. The project is sponsored by the Mississippi Association of Conservation Districts Inc. in cooperation with the Mississippi Soil and Water Conservation Commission and the USDA Soil Conservation Service. Mississippi is one of ten states to receive a grant to conduct the project. Participants gained leadership and technical skills to assist districts in facing many of the challenges of the future and finding solutions to those conservation problems. Speights and Eastridge were chosen to participate because of the leadership abilities they have shown as commissioners and their interest in soil and water conservation.

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

David Duke sat across a small table from me one Sunday morning in 1978. For two hours we debated various issues on Joe Culotta's radio talk show, "Let's Talk it Over." Much younger then, he was not far removed from his wild Nazi-Klan years at LSU in Baton Rouge, La.

Has David Duke changed since 1978? His manner of speaking has undoubtedly changed. It is now courteous and conciliatory. He has abandoned his savagery of expression as well as his direct contention that minorities are inferior. The former Grand Wizard has seemingly come so far that he has stated in public interviews: "I am concerned about the welfare of my black brothers and sister."

Much more than all that, he now claims to be a born-again Christian who has abandoned the indiscretions of his youth. "I have received Christ into my life," he assures us, "and I give him the credit for all the changes in my life."

"Can the leopard change his spots" (Jer. 13: 23)?

Has David Duke really accepted Christ into his life, or is he indulging in religious expediency? Is Jesus Christ just another tool being used to forge his political future?

Has he completely repudiated everything Nazism and racism stand for? Does he completely eschew, also in private, a frightful, lower-than-human opinion of Jews and blacks?

People of good will, especially those who claim to be Christians, are caught between a rock and a hard place in cases like this.

On the one hand, by loyalty to Jesus they are pledged to forgive and to accept a sister/brother who decides to turn around and be a true disciple.

On the other, they are obliged to protect those who might be harmed by a devious person who has falsely claimed to be born again. Forgiveness must not interfere with self-defense. Thus, many wary voters were trying to "be shrewd as serpents and simple as doves" (Mt. 10: 16) in an effort to find out whether David Duke was really born-again.

Clergymen met with him singly and in groups to interview him and dialogue with him about his new-found religion.

Our dirty baggage

Others, such as the Federation of Churches in New Orleans, and the Archdiocese of New Orleans and its metropolitan affiliate dioceses issued stern statements against racism.

Though many people seem unwilling to admit it, David Duke has done more than resonate most of the innermost thoughts and feelings which they—white, black and other—have about racial, religious, economic, political and other issues.

He has peeled back the thin philosophical and theological covering on the political baggage of millions of erstwhile silent people. They are now standing in their undies or less, and their dirty baggage is hanging out for the world to see.

Rush Limbaugh, on his widely syndicated radio show, said: "I am livid that David Duke, an unacceptable messenger, is the only one who has the courage to spread the conservative message. Unfortunately, we cannot accept his baggage."

David Duke has hit a nerve center and a huge responsive chord in tens of millions of people across the land.

No matter whether we call theirs a protest vote. It is nonetheless altogether crucial to confront them—and their dirty baggage is intimately intertwined with ours.

St. Stanislaus Key Club members raised $100 by walking two miles for the Bay-Waveland Crisis Pregnancy Center recently. The center's purpose is to serve women who face unexpected, "stress" pregnancies by offering a 24-hour helpline, free pregnancy testing, confidential counseling, medical assistance, referrals, educational presentations, maternity needs and financial aid referrals. The center is located at 910-A Hwy. 90, Waveland. (SSC Photo)

U.M. Gulfside Assembly to be part of broadcast

"Catch the Spirit," a national cable program aired throughout the United States by the United Methodist Church, selected United Methodist Gulfside Assembly, Waveland, as the site for one of its February, 1992 Sunday morning program segments.

Film crews and other personnel from Nashville and New York swarmed over the 60-acre conference center for six days recently recording information concerning the past and present history of the institution.

Founded in 1923 by the late Bishop Robert E. Jones, the center continues to provide opportunities for religious growth to many persons in this community and some who have come as far away as West Africa.

Several staff and local persons were interviewed for the program. Besides the co-directors, Dr. Charles and Nora Kellogg, others included John Moore, Kelvin Goines, John Lenoir, Shondel Dawson, Irma Hawkins, Augusta Acker, James Singleton and Mrs. Rometta Roberts.

The exact date of the airing of the show will be announced later.

GOD'S LOVE APPEARS IN THE SPARKLING WHITE OF WINTER

When autumn colors fade away
And skies aren't overcast with gray,
The brightest stars are on display
To brighten up the night;
And meanwhile, on the earth below,
The ground and trees are all aglow,
They're blanketed with ice and snow,
To everyone's delight
The icicles adorn the trees
And all the world would seem to freeze;
However, everyone agrees
It is an awesome sight.
Each lesson of our faith implies
A blessing we should recognize:
The love of God before our eyes,
With winter's sparkling white.

Poinsettias provide best holiday decoration of all

By Dr. Milo Burnham
Horticulturist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

The Christmas rush is all around us with seasonal music, parades and decorations, especially poinsettias. If there is one flower associated with the holiday season, it is the poinsettia. Even if you have an artificial Christmas tree you must have at least one real poinsettia in your home.

Actually, the more poinsettias in your home, the more Christmas spirit you will have. Get several and place them throughout your house—even put a little one in the bathroom.

When shopping for poinsettias to decorate your home or to give as gifts, look for plants with a fresh appearance—good green leaves and brightly colored bracts. Those brightly colored parts that you might think are petals are actually leaves.

Since they are colored and just below the real flowers, they are called bracts. The real flower of the poinsettia plant is small, round, greenish in color and doesn't have any petals. A cluster of these small flowers sit in the middle of the colorful bracts.

Red is still the most popular poinsettia color, but that hasn't stopped researchers from looking into other colors. Poinsettias now can be pink, peach, white, splotted red and pink, and even yellow in addition to the traditional red.

Once you've taken a poinsettia into your home, there are some things you should do to keep it looking attractive for as long as possible (this can be up to and even beyond Valentine's Day). Keep the soil moist, but not wet, and occasionally water with a water soluble fertilizer following package directions.

Don't let the colorful bracts touch cold window panes where they'll freeze or be damaged by the cold. Keep the plant away from the door and cold drafts and away from heater vents that can blast it with hot air.

Christmas poinsettias are grown in greenhouses, so they are accustomed to a lot of bright light. When you get the plants home, see that they continue to receive a lot of light. Keeping the other cautions in mind, place the plants where they receive as much natural light as possible.

Many indoor plants benefit from extra humidity which is often supplied by misting. You might be tempted to mist your poinsettias, but resist the temptation. Spraying the colorful bracts with water may cause spotting and may even spread disease.

To raise the humidity around the plants you can group them or for single plants set the pot on a waterproof tray filled with gravel with water just below the top of the gravel. The evaporating water will humidity the air, and the water won't be able to wick into the pot.

Poinsettias can be used as cut flowers in floral arrangements, but they last only a few days when cut. Try to incorporate potted plants into floral displays to avoid cutting the stems. If you cut the stems, the milky, latex-like sap can seal over the cut stem and prevent water uptake by the cut poinsettia. To prevent this, singe the cut stem end in a candle or gas flame or immerse the stem end in boiling water for a few seconds.

The bright colors of poinsettias are likely to attract small children, so don't place the plants where toddlers and smaller children can reach them. Poinsettias are not considered poisonous, but they are not intended for eating.

Color seeping with bulbs

A world filled with color speaks to the heart, soothes the soul and stimulates the senses. Landscapes with drifts of bulbs possessing a rainbow of colors can create such feelings.

Years of enjoyment can be accomplished by incorporating various bulbous plants into your landscape which return yearly from underground propagules (true bulbs, corms, rhizomes, tuberous roots and tubers). For simplicity the term "bulb" will equal each previously mentioned structure.

Bulbous plants can be further divided into two general groups; spring (tulip, daffodil, Dutch hyacinth, crocus, iris, Dutch amaryllis, Peruvian lily and grape hyacinth) and summer (dahlia, gladiolus, canna, caladium, elephant's ear, day-lily, spider lily, swamp lily, crinum, naked lady and gapanthus) blooming bulbs.

Large rock, walls, or fencing may be necessary to prevent naked beds during dormant periods.

Many people enjoy prolonging their bulbs' bloom period. A two-week extension of flowering can be accomplished by varying planting depths and lengths of sun exposure.

Soil preparation is another criteria in growing bulbs. Beds should be tilled 9-12" deep to provide uniform planting and flowering. To encourage optimum performance and prevent bulb rotting, the soil should be moist, well-drained and have adequate organic matter.

For prevention of wet feet and rotting, I recommend raised beds in our area. Prior to planting have your soil's chemical and nutrient composition analyzed at the MCES Soil Testing Lab.

Adjusting soil pH is critical, since bulbs perform best between pH 5.5 and 7.0. Phosphorous, a non-mobile element important for root and flower development, should always be added before planting.

If bulbs are planted with a bulb planter or trowel and the soil not tested, apply one teaspoon of bone meal (1-15-0) two inches below the bulb.

As a follow-up fertilizer program, apply 5-10-10, at 3 pounds per 100 square feet, in early spring before spring flowering bulbs bloom. Remember never apply a mixed fertilizer to spring blooming bulbs at planting.

For summer flowering bulbs, apply 5-10-10 at 2 pounds per 100 square feet, 3 times, during

Christmas trees

Tips offered to extend the life of natural trees

Christmas tree growers have suffered three years of depressed prices, while consumers have accumulated three years of bargains. For producers, 1991 doesn't hold much promise as a better year.

Mississippi is home to about grown. The most popular varieties are the native species of eastern red cedar and Virginia pine.

Dr. Stephen Dicke, forest resource specialist, said the Virginia pine is more tolerant to indoor heating and can stay wait until at least three weeks before Christmas to bring a live tree indoors. If they must cut the tree before then, he recommended storing the tree outside in the cool shade in a container of water to minimize stress.

Trees need to be transported in a covered vehicle or in the trunk of the car. A 5- to 10-mile trip on the top of a car can turn a fresh tree into a disappointment.

The LA-MS Christmas Tree Association offered the following tips for the freshest and safest natural Christmas tree.

—Saw off the butt end of the tree 1 to 2 inches above the original cut and immediately place the tree in water in a cool place until time to display it.

—Never let the tree run out of water; check it daily.

—Mist the branches and foliage with water daily to keep them moist and fresh.

—Be sure the tree is well supported and is away from fireplaces, radiators, television sets, or other sources of heat that will dry out the tree. Do not block exits with trees.

—Do not use lighted candles or other open flames on or near Christmas trees.

—Check electric lights and connections. Worn, frayed wires or electric cords must not be used.

—Avoid use of combustible decorations and flammable reflectors for colored lights. Keep metal foil "icicles" or tinsel away from bulb sockets.

—Avoid accumulating wrapping paper and electrical toys under trees.

—Unplug electric lights when no one is home.

—Dispose of tree properly; consider making a bird feeder with suet, peanut butter and seeds.

160 Christmas tree growers, many of whom allow customers to visit their farm and choose and cut their own tree.

In 1990, an estimated 230,000 native Christmas trees were produced in the state for a value of $4.8 million.

An estimated 60 percent of the natural trees sold in the state last year were Mississippi green for up to five weeks with correct care. Expect eastern red cedars to turn brown after about three weeks, he said.

If consumers buy their tree from a retail lot, they can test it for freshness by looking for soft sap on the cut base. If the needles of the tree bend without breaking, the tree is fresh.

Dicke said consumers should the growing season at 6-week intervals. Of course it is best to base all fertilizer applications on a soil test.

Strong and healthy plants can be produced if the soil is properly amended and the bulbs correctly planted. Rootless bulbs should be set securely at the bottom of a wide-based planting hole.

Bulbs possessing roots should be planted on a ridge of soil with the roots spreading downward. Remember to ensure good soil to bulb contact. Quality bulb selection is very important if healthy plants and floral display are to perpetuate. Therefore, only select large, firm, blemish-free bulbs and never sacrifice quality.

Adhering to the proper planting depth and spacing is also important in successfully growing bulbs. Generally, a planting depth of 2.5 times deeper than bulb diameter will suffice.

Specifically, these depths should be followed; tulip (5-8"), daffodil, gladiolus and Dutch num (24") should be spaced as stated depending on the cultivar.

Another consideration in growing bulbs is the amount of sun exposure. Some bulbs (tulips, gladiolus, canna and daylily) require full sun while others (caladium, iris, grape and Dutch hyacinth, daffodil, dahlia, Dutch amaryllis, swamp lily, crinum, naked lady, and agapanthus) grow in full sun to partial, filtered or light shade depending on species and cultivars.

Bulbs are primarily grown for their floral display with most species possessing cultivars in a rainbow of colors. In addition, many bulbs (daffodil, Dutch hyacinth, swamp lily and crinum) bring aromatic fragrances to the landscape. Two bulbous plants (caladium and elephant's ear) are not known for their flowers but for foliage planted. caladiums should be transplanted to beds when night temperatures reach 60° F. However, tubers, with all but 1 eye removed, should be planted in beds after soil temperatures reach 70° F. Tubers with only one eye ensures a single, large stem with leaves.

Yes, gladioli are dug yearly in the lower South but the baby glad (Gladiolus byzantinus), an old garden perennial with large, purple-red spikes, does not require yearly digging. I have frequently found this gaudy but stunning plant in our area.

Canna, not usually dug yearly, does show improved flowering form this practice. Dig cannas in late winter or early spring, remove old growth, clean roots, retill beds, discard hyacinth (3-6"), crocus and grape hyacinth (2-3"), dahlia (4-8"), canna, naked lady and elephant's ear (2"), Peruvian lily (2-4"), agapanthus (5") day-lily (5-12") and iris (1-3").

Dutch amaryllis should be planted just under the soil surface while caladium, spider lily, swamp lily and crinum should be planted where the tip of the bulb's neck is at the soil's surface.

Bulb spacing of tulip, Dutch hyacinth and crocus should be between 3-6" while iris (2-12"), dahlia (12-36"), gladiolus (4-6") caladium (8-12") canna (12-18"), spider lily and naked lady (10"), swamp lily (6-18"), grape hyacinth (3"), elephant's ear (18"), agapanthus, Dutch amaryllis and Peruvian lily (12"), daffodil (6-8"), and cricolor and texture.

Bulbs, for the most part, are long-lived perennials. However, several (tulip, Dutch hyacinth, gladiolus and caladium) must be treated as annuals in the lower South to produce large flowers and meet chilling requirements. These bulbs should be dug yearly and properly stored. Tulips and hyacinths should be refrigerated 6 weeks at 40° F before a December planting.

If purchasing new tulips, select pre-chilled bulbs and replant old hyacinths with additional new large bulbs. Folks, never refrigerate bulbs with fruit or other edible products.

Caladium should be dug before the fall's first frost and stored at 55-60° F with the old, withered foliage removed. Early sprouting pots of March weak plants and replant.

Hardy bulbous plants found in old gardens of the area include crinum, daylily, naked lady, swamp lily, spider lily, agapanthus, elephant's ear, specific daffodils, Louisiana and Dutch irises (bearded iris not recommended here) and Dutch amaryllis. These do not require yearly digging and do not require frequent division.

Yes, bulbs can perpetually brighten our landscapes and make great pass-along plants to friends and neighbors.

For more information about bulbs, contact local nurserymen and obtain a copy of "Planting and Care of Bulbs, Corms, Thizomes and Roots" from your Extension Office. Until next time, this is H. Randall saying, color your world with flowering bulbs.

Swanier designs winning doubloon

St. Paul's Carnival Association of Pass Christian has announced Stacey Swanier of Pass Christian as winner of the third annual Doubloon Design Contest.

Swanier's design depicts the 1992 carnival theme "America the Beautiful 1492-1992."

Swanier will be awarded a collector's set of doubloons and a $100 savings bond.

For more information about doubloons, call Connie and Lenny Keel at 452-7011.

The 1992 carnival ball will be Feb. 29, and the annual Mardi Gras parade will be March 1 at 1 p.m.
